Report

The Research & Development Cell of A Institute successfully organized a National Level online workshop on September 22, 2023. The event brought together research scholars and faculty members from various departments across all schools, with a total of 134 participants, including students and staff.

The workshop was led by Dr. Kuralarasan from Ghent University, who delivered a thought-provoking presentation titled "Are offenders specialists or generalists? Is there competition among offenders? Exploring modus operandi through behavioural ecology." The talk focused on the behavioral ecology of offenders, exploring whether they tend to specialize in specific types of crimes or engage in a broader range of activities. The presentation also delved into the concept of competition among offenders and how this affects their modus operandi.

The workshop aimed to provide a platform for participants to engage with the latest research and developments in behavioral ecology, particularly in the context of criminal behavior. The event was designed to foster a collaborative environment where scholars and faculty members could share their knowledge, discuss their research, and learn from each other's experiences.

The workshop was well-received by the participants, who appreciated the opportunity to engage with Dr. Kuralarasan's expertise and insights. The event was a testament to the institute's commitment to promoting interdisciplinary research and fostering a culture of innovation and collaboration among its

The success of this workshop is a reflection of the institute's dedication to providing a platform for scholars to share their research and expertise, and to fostering a culture of collaboration and innovation. The event will undoubtedly have a lasting impact on the participants, inspiring them to continue exploring the complexities of behavioral ecology and its applications in various fields
